

116TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

S. J. RES. 12

To withdraw all United States Armed Forces from Afghanistan, and for other purposes.

Whereas since 2001, more than 3,002,635 men and women of the United States Armed Forces have deployed in support of the Global War on Terrorism, with more than 1,400,000 of them deploying more than once, and these

Americans who volunteered in a time of war have served their country honorably and with distinction;

Whereas in November 2009 there were fewer than 100 Al-Qaeda members remaining in Afghanistan;

Whereas on May 2, 2011, Osama Bin Laden, the founder of Al-Qaeda, was killed by United States Armed Forces in Pakistan;

Whereas United States Armed Forces have successfully routed Al-Qaeda from the battlefield in Afghanistan, thus fulfilling the original intent of Public Law 107–40 and the justification for the invasion of Afghanistan, but public support for United States continued presence in Afghanistan has waned in recent years;

Whereas an October 2018 poll found that 57 percent of Americans, including 69 percent of United States veterans, believe that all United States troops should be removed from Afghanistan; and

Whereas in June 2018, the Department of Defense reported, “The al-Qa’ida threat to the United States and its allies and partners has decreased and the few remaining al-Qa’ida core members are focused on their own survival”: Now, therefore, be it
